Notice!

To the ice consumers of Covina
and vicinity:

On the 15th of April, Mr. Geo. Burall was replaced as our agent in Covina. After personal investigation and numerous complaints of poor service and ungentlemanly conduct, we found it to be to the best interest of the people of Covina and ourselves to replace him as our representative.

We have appointed Mr. C. A. Callahan, who will be our Covina agent in the future.

For prompt and courteous service call Covina 54.

Overholtzer Chosen Mayor of Covina

An unusually large attendance of taxpayers were present on Tuesday evening at the reorganization meeting of the board of city trustees. On the previous evening a brief session was held, at which time the newly-elected trustees, Glen Harnish and A. H. Longworth took the oath of office. These men succeeded J. M. Stanton and Matt Delano, whose terms had expired.

During the past week there had been considerable guessing among the citizens as to who would succeed J. M. Stanton as chairman of the board of trustees, a position which carries with it the honor of mayor of the city. It was very generally known that Trustees Maxfield and Overholtzer were in a receptive mood, but no one was quite sure until the vote was taken on Tuesday night which would be elected. The choice was for Mr. Overholtzer, and it is now Mayor Overholtzer. Mr. Overholtzer has been a member of the board of city trustees for the past two years and has always taken an active interest in the public affairs of the city.

The first action of the newly-organized board was to declare vacant the positions of the various city officers—city marshal and tax collector, city attorney, and city recorder. By a unanimous vote the office of city marshal and tax collector was filled by the reappointment of Robert Crenshaw. Seth Colver, a young attorney, resident of West Badillo street, was unanimously chosen as city recorder in the place of Dailey S. Stafford, who has filled the position for the past two years. Thomas B. Reed, the incumbent, was reappointed city attorney by a vote of three to two, Trustees Maxfield and Longworth voting for Dailey S. Stafford.

The following standing committees were appointed by the newly-elected chairman:

Sanitation and sewer—Budd, chairman; Maxfield, Longworth.
Streets—Longworth, chairman; Harnish, Budd.
Finance and ordinance—Maxfield, chairman; Harnish, Longworth.
Parks and public utilities—Harnish, chairman; Longworth, Budd.

Brenton To Head Boxing Bout Tonight

Announcing a main event with Jim Brenton, Los Angeles, versus the local champion, also of Los Angeles, the American Legion of this city is, offering a boxing event this (Friday) evening that promises to be the star program of all that have ever been put on in the Covina arena. With the fine weather now prevailing a record attendance of fight fans from the neighboring towns is assured.

Added to the headlines is the semi-final event between Ad Geyer of Los Angeles and Al Andrews of El Monte. Both these boxers have made good showings here in previous appearances, and the boys are looking forward to four rounds of fast fighting in this bout.

The main preliminary will be Jake Poole of Covina versus Kid Louie of Placentia, boxing at 120 pounds. Jake has become the idol of the Covina fans on account of his aggressive fighting qualities. Another good fight is promised between Thad Warsaw, Covina's colored boy, and Battling Frankie of Los Angeles, at 133 pounds. Walter Meyers of Azusa will fight Battling Sabo of the Arcadia balloon school, at 133 pounds. Sabo is a veteran at the game, and has a record as an aggressive and clean fighter. Another bout will be Bud Garner of Seattle with Bonnie Diaz of Los Angeles. The former is an unknown quantity to the Covina fans, but rumor says that he has a wicked punch.

Bad-Check Passer Is Arrested at Visalia

W. B. Broadwell, a local dry goods merchant, is determined to make Covina an unhealthy place for "bad-check men" in which to operate. With the arrest and conviction this week of a man named Spinning, at Visalia, California, he has been directly instrumental in sending to prison five men during the past two years for this offense.

Spinning cashed a number of checks in Covina several months ago, and among them was one for a small amount at the Broadwell drygoods store. Mr. Broadwell at once offered a reward for his arrest, notifying every drygoods firm in California by circular as to the methods pursued by Spinning in securing the money. Broadwell's activity was directly responsible for the arrest of the man. Spinning while in Covina claimed to be an advertising man opening branches throughout the county. When arrested at Visalia he was going under the name of Curtis.

Fire Damages Home On Front Street Sunday

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Jackson on Front street was seriously damaged by fire shortly after 8 o'clock on Sunday evening. The cause of the fire is a mystery, as the entire family was absent from home at the time. By the prompt action of the local fire department the adjoining residences were saved from damage. Most of the furniture was saved by the neighbors, who rushed into the house when the fire was first seen breaking through the roof. The family had the misfortune to lose their barn by fire several months ago.

When the fire alarm sounded many left the various churches and several Easter programs were discontinued until the nervous householders had located the fire.

Civil War Veteran And Pioneer Passes

Joseph Amon, a veteran of the Civil war, for thirty-six years a resident of Covina, and one of the best-known pioneers of the valley, died on Saturday of last week at the Soldiers' Home, Sanitelle, where he went only a few days before his death to undergo an operation on his eyes. He was given the very best treatment possible, but his strength, on account of his advanced age, rapidly failed.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon under the direction of Custer & Christiansen at the Christian church, the Rev. Richard Gentry, the pastor, officiating. A quartet consisting of Miss Addie Keller, Mrs. Joe Newlan, J. M. Stanton, and Edward Keller, sang the favorite hymns of the deceased. The casket was covered with the flag which the deceased had so often followed through the shot and shell of battle, while the platform was a mass of beautiful bloom. The pallbearers were Civil war veterans, J. B. Raymond, John Smith, J. P. Smith, H. C. Mace, Clark Camp, and J. T. Henderson, Sr. The interment was in the Oakdale cemetery.

On August 15, 1917, Mr. and Mrs. Amon celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, and not for a long time had there been such an outpouring of the citizens of Covina as filled the Christian church on that occasion. People representing all creeds took part in the program provided and the church auditorium was beautiful with blossoms and flowering plants.

Joseph Amon was born in Erie county, Ohio, November 8, 1838. He enlisted in October, 1861, in company G, fifteenth regiment of Iowa volunteers, and was severely wounded during the battle of Shiloh. He was invalided home for a year, when he re-enlisted and served with Sherman during the balance of the war.

It was while wounded that he visited in Lee county, Ohio, and there met his future wife and life-long companion, Miss Sarah Prather. To this union were born four children, two sons and two daughters, two of whom, a girl and a boy, died in infancy. He leaves a widow, who resides at the family home on West Badillo street, a son, Harry Amon, a postal official of Los Angeles, and the daughter, Mrs. Walter Gilmore of Covina.

Mr. Amon moved to Covina with his family in January, 1885, making his home on the ranch now known as the Shumaker property. Second and Oak streets. Later he purchased the property now owned by L. L. Rakekin on Third street, and the later years of his life he spent at the family home on West Badillo street.

Woman's Club Will Hear Musical Program

Covina Monday Afternoon Club members are looking forward to the meeting of April 24, for at that time a music recital will be given by Mrs. Bertha McKay Pease and Miss Margaret Atwater. Mrs. Pease, formerly instructor of music at the Covina high school, has many friends here who will be glad to greet her on this occasion.

May 8 has been given as the date for the annual reciprocity luncheon, at which time another fine program will be enjoyed.

Elks and Legion Will Hold "Stag Night"

Considerable interest has been created by the announcement that the Pomona and Ontario Elk lodges, in conjunction with the American Legion, are arranging to stage a "stag night" at the American Legion pavilion in Covina on Wednesday, April 26th.

The program for which tickets can be secured by the general public, will commence at 8 o'clock with a series of boxing bouts, interspersed with several Japanese wrestling events. The musical part of the evening's program will be provided by the Elks. The arrangements are in charge of J. F. French, the popular motor car man of this city.

Fruit Inspection Will Be Subject For Club

The Covina Men's Club at the monthly meeting on Tuesday evening, May 3, will discuss whether or not our present system of inspection of frosted fruit is satisfactory. Mr. Pratt, of the Mutual Orange Distributors marketing agency, will point out some of its defects and Mr. Warner will speak from the standpoint of the state. The discussion should be of great interest to this community.

CAPTAIN MUSSEY SERIOUSLY ILL AT BADILLO STREET HOME

The readers of the Argus will learn with regret of the serious illness of Captain N. D. Mussey at his home on West Badillo street. On account of the advanced age of the Civil war veteran his condition is causing his relatives and friends considerable uneasiness as to the outcome.

The home at the present time is a veritable hospital, as Mr. Jesse Berry, Mr. Mussey's son-in-law, is just recovering from a severe case of blood poisoning, and the granddaughter, Miss Mildred Berry, is the victim of the flu and a general nervous breakdown. Mrs. Berry is the only one of the family enjoying accustomed health. Two nurses are in constant attendance.

May-Day Festival in Covina One Week From Tomorrow

Saturday, a week from tomorrow, April 29, Covina will entertain a great crowd of people from all over the valley at its spring festival, a combination of May day, pioneer and family reunions, a great educational exhibit, floral parade, school sports, horse racing, and a barbecue.

The chamber of commerce, under the direction of committees, has arranged a program that begins with the parade at ten o'clock and continues until 11:30 at night. Not an hour of the day or night but what some event is taking place, and the affair will be of interest to every family in the Upper San Gabriel valley.

PARADE. Every school in the valley will be represented in the parade in some form or other, and prizes will be awarded to each one in its class. Bonita, Citrus, Monrovia, Puente, El Monte, Claremont, and Covina high schools will be represented, and the grammar schools of Baldwin Park, West Covina, Merwin, Lark Ellen, Charter Oak, San Dimas, and Covina will have floats in the parade. The various citrus and walnut associations have prepared to enter, many of them representing the brands under which their products are packed. There will be industrial floats entered by the business men of the city, and auto dealers and individuals have promised a score or more of beautifully decorated machines. Benj. F. Thorpe is chairman of the parade committee and marshal of the day. His first assistant is Irvin Reynolds, the popular representative of the Buick agency.

BARBEQUE. At noon there will be a barbecue, with all the Spanish trimmings, served on the park grounds. Everyone holding a ticket to the pan-city exposition will be entitled to participate in the barbecue. This feature of the entertainment will be in charge of E. P. Warner, assisted by Frank Kendall, whose renown as a chef has spread outside the confines of the county lines. Commander Douglas of the American Legion is also a member of the committee.

SPORTS. At two o'clock the athletic program will commence. These events will be under the direction of Mr. McDonald, of the Santa Monica Athletic Club. The program includes many of the best methods that are being employed for the athletic development of youths of grammar school age. The program will include running, high jump, standing broad jump, 10-second run, baseball throw, pull-up, and a relay race. Special events for grammar school boys will be a burro race, obstacle race, and bicycle racing.

In the high school events will be a relay race in which the following schools will take part: Claremont, Bonita, Citrus, Monrovia, El Monte, Puente, and Covina. The following pushball games are also scheduled: Covina versus Puente grammar school; Covina versus Monrovia high school; Covina versus Monrovia American Legion.

Both Legs Broken In Auto Crash

Thursday afternoon of last week, about 2 o'clock, William Mavis, a laborer of Irwindale, was struck by an automobile driven by W. H. Fishback of Azusa at the corner of Badillo and Third streets. Mavis is now in the county hospital in Los Angeles, suffering from two broken legs, broken near the ankle. At the present time it is not known whether there are any internal injuries or not.

The accident occurred when Mavis was crossing Third street on the north side of Badillo. He had nearly succeeded in crossing when he was struck by the left front fender of Fishback's car and thrown under the wheels. According to Fishback's story, Mavis stepped back directly in line with the car instead of getting out of the way. It is said the accident was purely accidental. One of Mavis's ankles was fractured, while the other was badly smashed.

Covina Dog Wins Prizes At Shows

Best Pacific coast bred bitch was won by Tomboy, a local shepherd police dog owned by Mrs. James A. Keeney of Irwindale, at the Crown City Kennel Club's show held April 1 in Pasadena. She was also awarded the special green for the best Pacific coast bred, offered by Mr. P. A. B. Widener of Philadelphia, the specialty judge for the show held recently at the Huntington hotel by the Shepherd Dog Club of the West.

Her complete wins were five ribbons and two trophies, which gave her best bred by exhibitor and best sired by dog from Beneva Kennels.

There are at present in the Keeney kennels two beautiful wolf gray puppies of four and five months, which will probably be shown in Santa Barbara in July.

It is not generally known how much the shepherd police is valued in Europe. An idea may be given when it is learned that Germany must pay 10,000 of these dogs in her reparations to the allies.

Out-of-the-way stations in France and Belgium are guarded by the shepherd police and he is as necessary to the small municipalities in their police work as a man.

BICYCLE RACES.

The committee is hoping to arrange for a series of bicycle races for boys of grammar and high school ages. The details for these races will be in the hands of Frank Anderson, packing house manager of the Covina Citrus Association, a veteran bicycle racer who twenty years ago held most of the short distance records for Southern California.

EXPOSITION.

Another feature of the day will be the pan-city exposition, held in the packing house of the Covina Citrus Association. This exposition, which will be held for the first time this year in Covina, is for the purpose of encouraging and giving opportunity for competition in the activities of the coming citizens under twenty-one years of age. The schools of the upper San Gabriel valley, including Claremont, San Dimas, La Verne, Azusa, Glendora, Monrovia, El Monte, and Puente, are sending exhibits—thus the pan-city exposition. Every boy and girl under twenty-one years of age is eligible to enter exhibits in competition for the prizes. The exposition will have an art department, animal department, domestic science department, manual training department, metal work department, commercial department, and curios and collections. There will also be an amateur photography contest. Hundreds of exhibits have already been entered by the various schools and by individual boys and girls. The management of this exposition is in charge of Harry R. Webber and C. D. Eddy, who have worked untiringly in making it a success. Tickets to this exposition will entitle the holders to all the events of the day, including the barbecue at noon.

FROST PREVENTION.

A feature of the day will be the frost protection convention, which will be held in the American Legion pavilion on the park grounds. There will be morning and afternoon sessions. The morning session will commence at 10 a.m. with an address of welcome to the delegates by George F. Binehart, vice-president of the Covina chamber of commerce. The balance of the morning will be devoted to papers and discussion of orchard heaters, devices and materials. In the afternoon the convention will convene at 1 o'clock. The first speaker of the afternoon will be the first speaker, followed by an exhibition of mechanical frost prevention devices, papers, addresses and discussions on frost prevention by mechanical means. There will be a heater demonstration outside the convention building. Every packing association and citrus district in the state will be represented by delegates.

FASHION REVUE.

A fashion revue also promises to be a feature of the exposition, and arrangements are being made by the millinery and dry goods firms of the towns of the valley to participate. The Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church, the Thimble Club of Charter Oak, the Woman's Relief Corps, and the Salvation Army have arranged for booths.

Local Hardware Firm To Open Beach Store

McClellan & Larkin, a local hardware firm, announce that they have this week signed a lease for a new building at Santa Monica, where they will open a fully stocked hardware store about July 1st. The building, when constructed, will be 40x90 feet, with a basement salesroom, making a total floor space of 7200 square feet.

Mr. Larkin states that since selling their store in Baldwin Park last November they have investigated a great many locations and have selected Santa Monica on account of the tremendous building activity in that beach town.

It is expected that Mr. McClellan will remain here in charge of the Covina store and that Mr. and Mrs. Larkin will move to Santa Monica about the last of June.

Prejudice Against Glasses

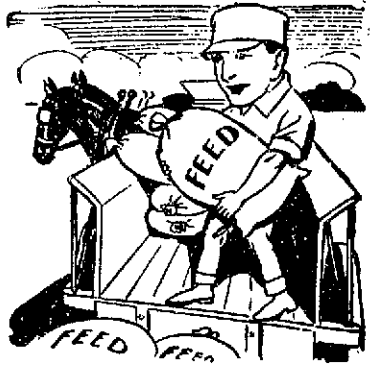

Persons are often prejudiced against glasses and sometimes positively refuse to wear them even when they know they are imperatively needed.

But a contest with age is hopeless, and it is the part of wisdom to yield gracefully to the first summons to surrender.

I am prepared to give you advice in this matter—correct advice, time-saving, sight-saving advice. I have the proper equipment for making thorough and intelligent examinations of your eyes and if you need glasses, will furnish them at as low a figure and correctly ground lenses and perfect fitting frames can be had anywhere.

PEOPLE who are intimately acquainted with physicians know that charges are made very low to those whose resources are limited and that much free service is given those in need.

It is in much the same spirit that the responsible funeral director serves the family whose income is limited.

Where the funeral arrangements are left largely to his judgment it is common practice to provide suitable accessories that will not run to great expense, and to disregard the item of overhead and profit in making his charges. How much free service he gives "without letting the right hand know what the left hand doeth" only those very close to him understand.

Funeral directors welcome the co-operation of the public in discouraging needless expense for the sake of show.

Lawyers To Battle Against Referendum

Free wills, drawn by trust companies, are to figure prominently in a campaign to be waged this year, according to a statement made yesterday by Attorney Dailey S. Stafford, who drew attention to the referendum of senate bill 21, which is to appear on the ballot in November.

Senate bill 21, frequently alluded to as the Sample bill because it was introduced in the senate by Senator Sample of San Diego, was passed by the last legislature and signed by Governor Stephens, Mr. Stafford said. It prohibits unlicensed persons and corporations from practicing law, and particularly prohibits trust companies and other similar corporations from drawing wills.

"If this campaign were just a contest between lawyers and trust companies there would be no particular reason for the public becoming interested," said Mr. Stafford. "But when some trust companies draw wills they insert clauses that are inimical to public welfare. One of the most reprehensible of these clauses is that which makes it possible for a trust company to buy stocks and bonds from an estate it holds in trust and peddle them on the market, or to sell stocks and bonds and other property to estates in trust, the transactions being made for the purpose of a profit for the trust companies and not for the estates. The trust companies fix the percentage they may earn for handling the estate, which is against all rule of just law, and this percentage is fixed on the gross value and not on the net earnings. Under such a system there is no incentive for a trust company to increase the value of the estate in trust."

"The trust company will draw a will free of charge if the trust company is named the executor of the estate. But such 'free' wills are often very costly to the testator, as is shown by numerous cases in this county. Not all trust companies engage in this practice, but some of the largest companies in Los Angeles are gross offenders."

"The Sample bill makes it unlawful for any person excepting one duly licensed to practice law. The bill does not in any way change the present status of persons dealing in real estate, insurance, etc., as the bill exempts the act of drawing all ordinary business instruments. The people should investigate this bill carefully in the coming months, as it means a great deal to every widow and every minor child left estates under wills. County banks, and in fact, many large city banks, are in favor of the bill and are not aiding the trust companies in their attempt to kill the statute."

"But some of the most powerful of the trust companies have raised an enormous slush fund to defeat the Sample bill. I believe that there will be some astounding revelations in this campaign, and of the kind that will create a sensation in fiduciary circles in this state."

Major Lineberger Announces Candidacy

Representative Walter F. Lineberger of this congressional district broke his long-continued silence this week and announced at Washington his candidacy for renomination at the coming Republican primaries, according to news dispatches received from the capitol this week.

Major Lineberger has refrained from an announcement heretofore, awaiting some expression from the district as to whether it wanted him to continue in congress. Such expressions have been forthcoming in definite and considerable volume. Accordingly, Major Lineberger, the dispatch says, telegraphed yesterday to Galen H. Welch, chairman of the Republican congressional committee of the ninth district, as follows: "Having received numerous expressions of indorsement from constituents throughout the district, and also the recent indorsement and approval of the ninth district Republican congressional committee, I feel called upon to inform you as to my attitude for renomination to congress by the Republican party. My future political activities are subject to the will of my constituents and if they desire, I shall again make the race. If elected, I shall continue in the future as in the past to give hearty support and cooperation to the furtherance of all moral issues for which my constituents shall stand and to give undivided loyalty to the Republican party as exemplified by President Harding and his administration."

EASTER SERVICES AT THE COVINA METHODIST CHURCH

Easter Sunday, some half-dozen auto loads of local Methodists met at the church and then went to attend the sunrise service on Glendora Heights. The Sunday-school registered record attendance. At 11 o'clock the pastor and the Rev. S. J. McConnell baptized ten children. Mrs. Jennie Wood, superintendent of the "cradle roll" assisting. This beautiful service was followed by reception of members, eight being received by transfer, confession of faith and in preparatory membership.

The pastor's Easter sermon dealt with the theme, "Who Shall Roll Away the Stone." An anthem by the choir, a vocal solo by Miss Ruth Whitel, with violin obligato played by Miss Dorothy King, who also rendered as an offertory solo the "Grade Song" by Brahms, constituted the special music. The church was beautifully decorated by Mrs. F. W. Gail and committee.

At 7:30 the Easter Sunday-school program was given by the young people's department, under the directorship of their superintendent, W. J. Evans. This was in the form of a pageant, "The Immortality of Love." The principal parts were taken by Frances Evans, Margaret Hilder, Olive Coffin, Beekham Marr, Carlton Eckermann, Chester Calhoun, Olin Moody, Leroy Robertson, Harold Williams. Credit is due Winthrop Owen for the beautiful lighting effects. The costuming was under the direction of Mrs. W. J. Evans. Valuable help was also given by Mr. Harry Gordon, Mrs. Chew at the piano, Mrs. E. P. Warner, and Mrs. H. E. Owen, who sang.

Easter Dawn Service Held on Covina Hills

(By C. D. EDDY)

In response to the announcement made by the young people of the Baptist church, about thirty young people gathered at the head of Citrus avenue at 5:30 last Sunday morning and quietly climbed to the top of the little hill at the left of the canyon and held there an informal but most impressive Easter dawn service. After singing several of the old hymns significant of the Easter message of the Risen Christ, prayers were offered by a number of the young people. Miss Mary Funk read the account of the first Easter morning as told by St. Luke. C. D. Eddy made a short talk on the origin and significance of Easter dawn services, first on Mount Rabidoux and then in many other places and then of the meaning of the resurrection of the Christ and its influence in the world's life and hope of today. The concluding number on the program was the reading of a part of the poem by Henry Van Dyke, "God of the Open Air," read by Mrs. J. L. Matthews.

At the close of the service the young people went to the canyon below and there had a splendid outdoor breakfast which was prepared by the boys of the party.

I am making this write-up as a communication as well as a report because out of it may come a suggestion. Why cannot such a service be arranged for by the churches of the city and become an annual affair? The hill on which this service was held is splendidly located, giving a wonderful view of the entire valley, with a background that cannot be excelled anywhere, at Riverside or anywhere else. I have attended the Rabidoux service three times and know whereof I speak. The distance from the city is good, the sunrise superb, the hill is easy to climb, yet gives splendid elevation, and with a little trail-making can be made to comfortably accommodate all who care to come.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL PAGEANT AND ENTERTAINMENT

Under the auspices of the Covina grammar school, Miss Eva D. Edwards, principal, has arranged for an entertainment and lecture in the school auditorium, Tuesday, April 25, 7 p.m.

The lecture entitled "The Romance of Electricity," will be given by Mr. Walter G. Blossom, accompanied by several motion pictures showing some very unusual scenes. Mr. Blossom will tell of the pioneering work in electrical industry and of its importance in the development and success in the state of California, which ranks foremost in progress and use of electricity.

One of the features of the evening will be a pageant, "Dance of the Snowflakes," by the children of the school as a prologue for one of the motion pictures. The entertainment is free and the public is invited.

Three Ways

in which best paint saves you money

WHEN you figure the comparative cost of painting, figure it on a five to ten-year basis. Don't be influenced by first cost alone.

In the first place, it's the cost of the "paint on the house" and not merely the cost per gallon that counts.

The best paint is really the most economical in this regard. It spreads easily, saving labor cost. It covers more area per gallon than "cheap" paint.

In the second place, you want the paint to last. The best paint serves many years longer than "cheap" paint. Therefore the best paint costs less on a "per year" basis, too.

The reason for the economy of the best paint lies in the fact that it is scientific in formula and preparation.

We've made the best paints for 73 years. The materials are the finest. For example, the white lead we use —PIONEER WHITE LEAD—is super-purified and ground so fine that it will pass through a silk screen with 40,000 meshes to the square inch.

So with the other materials—pure linseed oil, pure zinc, and pure colors—all finest quality, combined in Fuller's House Paints in scientifically exact proportions with long-time skill.

By using such paint whenever your house needs it, you prevent decay and thus find real economy.

CAMPAIGN FOR SOLDIERS' LOAN OPENED BY GOVERNOR STEPHENS

Under the auspices of Upper San Gabriel Valley Post, 207, and with Commander Gordon C. Douglas presiding, the campaign in Southern California for the veterans ten million dollar bond issue was launched on Monday night in Covina, with Governor William D. Stephens as principal speaker.

Governor Stephens, who signed the veterans' welfare measures that were passed by the last legislature, is one of the chief spokesmen in the state for the passing of a bond issue by the people which will make it possible for ex-service men of all past wars to buy homes and farms on long-time payments, utilizing state credit. He outlined the proposed plan, which in fact, is already in operation to the extent of three million dollars, but which awaits the passing of the larger bond issue to make it applicable to a large number of the men who served their country in the late war and in other wars.

The plan as outlined is to allow an ex-service man credit to the amount of $15,000 for a farm in the state land settlement section at or near Delhi, with an additional $5000 to use in stocking with cattle and tools. Of this money the veteran pays an initial amount that is nominal, and the remainder is amortized over a period of forty years at a low rate of interest.

There is also another proposition by which a veteran may secure property to the amount of $7500, and which may be situated anywhere in the state. He may also buy a home not to exceed $5000, all of which is financed by the state. The interest paid will be made to cover the cost of administering the veterans' welfare board and all costs in connection with the measures.

With the governor appeared Vice-Commander Elias V. Rosenkranz of the American Legion in the state of California, who spoke interestingly on the standards and purposes of the Legion. A communication from Frank B. Nichols, chairman of the veterans' welfare board, was read by J. F. French of the Covina post, urging that the people vote favorably on the bond issue in November.

The meeting was held in the Covina grammar school auditorium, and was attended by about four hundred people. The members of the G. A. R. and Woman's Relief Corps were present under their flags and organization standards. The high school orchestra rendered acceptable numbers, and a feature of the evening was the solos by Miss Frances Havlin, who gave the spirited number, "The Americans Come," and responded with an Indian love song. She was accompanied by Mrs. Roy Goodell. The high school orchestra was led by its instructor, Mrs. Waterman.

Prior to the meeting Commander and Mrs. Douglas entertained the governor and a party of legionnaires and friends at their home on Second street, where a well-appointed dinner was served. Mrs. Douglas was assisted in serving by Miss Victoria Reynolds and Mrs. J. R. Reeb. Those at table with the governor were James P. Britt and Lieutenant Thompson of the governor's staff; Vice-Commander E. V. Rosenkranz, J. F. French, chairman of Legion finance; Dailey S. Stafford, member of the Legion state executive committee; L. G. Reynolds, chairman of the Legion executive committee; Rev. Richard Gentry, chaplain; R. N. Cook, adjutant; J. L. Matthews, Henry L. Marshall, Summerfield Douglas, and Commander Douglas.

There is a wealth of action in "Flower of the North," the James Oliver Curwood production which will be shown at the Covina theater tonight and tomorrow.

Indian fights, night charges of the enraged Redskins, a helpless girl whirling into the rapids as her canoe rushes on, paddleless; physical fights and moral struggles. Pauline Starke, as the flower of the snow country, expresses all the yearning and heart hunger that may have been expressed generations before by her fair ancestors in the gilded circle of the French court.

On Monday and Tuesday "The Hell Diggers" comes to the Covina theater and is said to be filled with thrills. It is a virile love story of life in the California gold dredging fields, and every scene is filled with strong dramatic action.

Following the dinner the governor complied with a request from Leland Drew, superintendent of the Masonic Home, and visited the children. The governor made a very happy talk to the boys and girls, of which there are 103 at the institution at present.

The governor's address at the school auditorium was in part as follows:

GOVERNOR'S ADDRESS.

"I want to speak about soldier legislation. The legislature of this state has caused to be passed and I as governor have signed fundamental soldier legislation that is now upon the statute books of this commonwealth. This legislation is the beginning of a plan through which we may partially recompense and do honor to the men who in war have sacrificed for us. I have as governor made into law the Veterans' Welfare act, appropriating $1,000,000 and creating a welfare board, veterans' farm and home aid act, appropriating $2,000,000 for purchase, and the veterans' welfare $10,000,000 bond act. I signed them all on Memorial day that I might do my part in erecting a monument in America, and in California in particular, to the lads who are home again, 148,000 of them, ready to bare their backs and breasts for California as they did for the union.

The plan is that the soldier lad should present his application to the soldier welfare board at Sacramento. If his credentials are all right the board says, "Go ahead and select your home." He pays a modest sum out of his own pocket and the state pays the rest and then gives him a loan for forty years' time. All of the deferred payments bear 5 per cent, and that interest takes care of all the interest on the bonds and all the overhead expense. So that, friends, there is no gift—only the opportunity asked for to buy a home on long-time payments, and you have nothing to do except to vote "yes" on the ballot.

Now, this welfare board was appointed by the governor. It consists of four veterans and one non-veteran. They have been functioning for quite a while. Two of their bills, one for homes and one for farms, have been declared constitutional, and we are well on the way to put that measure over. It will be a bond proposal, a proposal for the state to issue ten millions of dollars all to be used for the purchase of homes and farms to sell again to the soldiers of California. This applies to the veterans of any war in which America participated; however, the soldier must have entered the service from California and still live in California.

Friends, I am asking wherever I go that the patriotic sons and daughters of America go to the polls in California next November and vote "yes" for this measure, thereby helping not only the boys, but helping ourselves.

ANTI-SYNDICALISM LAW.

One other thing I want to say concerning a possibility. Two or three days ago there came to my attention a report that an attempt was being put on foot to repeal the anti-syndicalism law. This is the law that punishes the I. W. W. in California. It is the law that closes a man's mouth when he stands on the street corners and tries to tear down Old Glory; that sends to the penitentiary the man that preaches against the government and the country. I am proud to admit that I was the virtual author of that law. And now I am asking each and every one of you to see that this law is not repealed.

Slauson Estate to Pay Big Inheritance Tax

The estate of Mrs. Sarah R. Slauson, totaling in value more than $500,000, will pay an inheritance tax to the state of $19,228.49, according to the report filed in the office of State Controller Ray L. Riley by E. P. Werner, inheritance tax attorney. Mrs. Slauson, a pioneer resident of Los Angeles, and a conspicuous figure in its social life for more than forty years, died in February, 1920, at the age of 84 years.

She was the mother of James Slauson, Mrs. Kate S. Vosburg, and Mrs. Louise Slauson MacNeil of Azusa. The estate, which represented, at the time of Mrs. Slauson's death, $175,249 in personal property, is apportioned between the two daughters and the son. Transfers of property amounting to $328,798 to the three had been made by the mother prior to her death.

PHILAMTHEON CLASS
ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

The Philamtheon Sunday-school class of the Methodist church held its monthly business and social evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bakenhus on Lark Ellen boulevard last Monday evening. The election of new officers took place during the business meeting. Mr. Seth Colver was elected new president; Mrs. Feist, vice-president, and Mrs. Henry, secretary and treasurer. After this meeting a social hour was enjoyed. Several contesting games were played, for which prizes were won by Mrs. Archer and Mr. Dort. Refreshments were then served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. E. Bosworth. There were twenty-eight present.

SIX COVINA BOYS ENJOY TRIP TO IMPERIAL AND MEXICO

Six Covina boys, in charge of George Hargrave, instructor of manual training at the Covina high school, were among a group of county Y. M. C. A. boys who spent the Easter holidays on an educational trip to Mexico. The boys were taken in automobiles to Riverside and through the Imperial valley to Mexicali, returning via the San Diego route.

Dies Suddenly At Charter Oak Home

The residents of Charter Oak were surprised on Sunday morning by the sudden death of Morris Hurwitz, a well-known rancher and contractor, at his residence, corner of Bonita and Cienega avenues. The deceased was stricken with heart failure shortly after 8 o'clock and before a doctor could be summoned he had ceased to breathe.

The funeral services were held on Monday afternoon in Los Angeles in the chapel of J. D. Faris & Company, corner of Tenth and Flower streets. The remains were laid to rest in the Home of Peace cemetery.

Mr. Hurwitz had been a resident and property-owner in this valley for the past twenty-seven years. The orange grove, on which the family residence is located, is one of the most productive in the Charter Oak district. He leaves a widow, Sophie Hurwitz, one son and two daughters. He belonged to the Jewish faith.

Ford Freight Rate Cut Twenty Dollars

Here's $20 worth of joy for prospective Ford car and truck purchasers. According to a telegram received by Everett, Malmerich & Clark, local Ford dealers, the freight charge on all models of Ford cars and trucks has been reduced by the above amount, effective April 15th.

Mr. Ford explains that this substantial reduction in Ford freight has been made possible solely by the fact that the operations of assembling, upholstering and finishing Ford cars have been developed at the Pacific Coast branches to the point where the entire local demand can be supplied from these plants. This means that the raw material from which Ford cars and trucks for this territory are manufactured, is received in compact, knocked-down form, taking the lowest freight rate. Heretofore, many of the Ford cars sold in this vicinity were shipped in, partially assembled, from eastern points, which necessitated a high freight rate. The Los Angeles branch, which supplies cars to this district, is now practically a miniature Ford factory.

"Mr. Ford's policy of passing on to the customer the benefit of any possible saving is well illustrated in this latest decrease," according to Everett, Malmerich & Clark. It is estimated that the saving to residents of Southern California and Arizona alone during the balance of the year will amount to more than $400,000.

Woodmen Will Play University Ball Team

The Covina Woodman ball team went down to defeat at the hands of the Corona team at Corona last Sunday with a score of 4 to 0. The local boys played good ball, but were not able to hit in a pinch, while the Corona aggregation did. The Corona boys made only two hits more than the Covina nine, but made them at the right time.

Next Sunday the local boys will play the southern branch of the University of California on the home grounds. It is said that the students play good ball. The home team will have all of its regular players, therefore the game will be well worth seeing. A week from Sunday the Woodmen play Corona again, this time on the home grounds.

Exhibition of Flowers To Be Held By Club

The ladies of the flower-study section of the Monday Afternoon Club, of which Mrs. J. D. Bixby, Sr., is curator, are arranging to hold a flower show at the Woman's clubhouse on Wednesday, May 3, from 2:30 to 10 p.m. It will be a non-competitive exhibit open to everyone in the Covina valley.

On Tuesday the ladies of the section, fifteen in number, spent a most enjoyable day in the hills, both north and south of Covina, in botanical research. They report the hills as carpeted with wild flowers, which, on account of the late rains, are in greater profusion than ever this year. The ladies partook of a picnic lunch at the picnic grounds in the hills southeast of town.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR
MISS BERRY HELD TODAY

The death occurred on Wednesday of Miss Emma Berry, daughter of Mrs. E. T. Berry and sister of Charles S. Berry, at the family home, Pleasant View ranch, on Barranca street. The deceased had been a complete invalid for many years. For the past twelve years she had been a resident of Covina.

The funeral services will be held at the residence this afternoon (Friday) at 2 o'clock, Rev. S. J. McConnell, former pastor of the Covina Methodist church, officiating. The remains will be shipped east and laid to rest in the family vault in Iowa.

RESIGNS AFTER YEARS OF FAITHFUL SERVICE

Miss Pearl Hulce and her sister, Mrs. Leo P. Gorman of Anaheim, spent Wednesday and Thursday in Covina visiting Covina friends and attending to business connected with their late father's estate. On Wednesday evening they were house guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Hurst of San Bernardino road. Miss Hulce for the present is making her home with her sister at Anaheim.

Until her father's recent death Miss Hulce was head saleswoman for the dry goods firm of W. B. Broadwell, the pioneer dry goods house of this city. She was with this firm for eighteen years and was recognized by the head of the firm, Mr. Broadwell, as one of his most valued employees.

WHY HOME TRADE FALLS OFF

It Always Slumps When
Business Is Unbusinesslike

Most business men have this failing—they are swept off their feet when business booms.

We hit prosperity. Then starts the trouble. Everybody buys everything in sight and the merchants are caught in their own trap. They start advertising to beat the band. A riot of selling follows, the merchants OVER ADVERTISE and OVERSELL THE MARKET. Demand for goods keeps up and then comes the trip to the bank to borrow—for expansion.

Then what? Shortage and rising prices—a riot of buying before prices tilt to the top and a wild spree of advertising to keep the game going.

Suddenly there comes a halt. Buying slows up, and timid unbusinesslike merchants curtain advertising and the buying halt continues. Then advertising is stopped and business becomes stagnant.

When trade needs no stimulus the merchants buy space like drunken sailors, but when trade needs a strong push, they contract.

If business spent one-third the money in advertising when trade is booming and three times the money when trade is poor, business would find stability.

NOW IS THE TIME TO ADVERTISE EXTENSIVELY.

Don't throw chips on a blazing fire. The wood is needed when the fire is low. Advertising now means a real service to the buying public. The people want to know where and what they can buy economically.

Protect Your Bloom

WHITEWASH keeps the tree 15 to 20 degrees cooler. This will more than offset the absence of the leaf by keeping the sap from fluctuating and casting the BLOOM when it turns warm. Also protects from sunburn and keeps off
TREE MOSS perfectly, and much of the scale. Absolutely no damage to tender growth or bloom to spray at any time.
There is no better time to spray than
now. It will get hot before the June drop. Lime only $17 per ton delivered.

The Small-Town Problem

Modern systems of business have a trend more and more toward the making of large cities larger and small cities smaller.

Centralization of business has been advocated and has been practiced over a period which began shortly after the Civil war, but which has been intensified in the past two decades, with emphasis on the ten years just experienced. That centralization cheapens the cost of doing business is a fallacy. It merely puts business in the hands of a few, who make enormous profits, but who impoverish vast areas, so far as the smaller communities are concerned.

In Covina, throughout the valley, we have seen the fallacy of centralization in its relation to the maintenance of a community. This community depends wholly on citrus fruits. The marketing of soil products cooperatively is a system that cannot be challenged for its cheapness. But when a marketing concern reaches out and begins to buy and sell other things, it may be able to save a margin on the commodities it handles, but it tends to destroy the competitive retail system upon which towns are built. Eventually the towns disappear, leaving just a small commissary for a few groceries and a few essentials that come under the head of local accommodations.

The centralization of the milling of grain killed the small towns of the middle and northwest. Today, in an attempt to devise some way in which the country districts may be built up again there are serious thinkers who believe that the great grain elevators should be replaced by small concerns that handle the local grain, thus distributing some of the labor in the actual districts where the grain is raised.

We find the small city and community today suffering from the serious inroads or gigantic banking institutions that are reaching out to curtail the business of the small bank. "Branch banks" of great institutions are being established in smaller districts, not for the purpose of aiding in the business of the small locality, but for the purpose of "feeding" the big institutions through the branch, or "sucker" institutions. Every small city and country bank not connected with the great financial octopus is feeling the drain through the loss of the handling of large country estates and through the loss of substantial accounts that are being drawn into the maw of the great centralized concerns.

There is enough retail business in all lines to be had from the city and valley of Covina to support a city of ten thousand people. But it is lost to the large city. The tendency of centralization of business is to eventually make the country bank merely a non-profitable depository of small funds; to make the department store merely a place to run in and get a spool of thread; to make the automobile trade a business of one big agency with a lot of little, non-profitable sub-agencies, and to turn all the purchases for the farm and orchard toward the big city rather than into the local center.

Congestion of business means congestion of population. The problem of big city congestion will never be solved until a serious effort is made to decentralize business.

This Fellow Flintham

(By John S. McGroarty in Los Angeles Times Magazine)

We wonder if this young fellow, Flintham, who holds the job of forester in Los Angeles county, felt his ears burning—burning so hot that he wanted to put ice packs on them—one night, not long ago?

You all know the old saw about your ears burning. It means that someone is talking about you.

Well, we were talking of Flintham that night in the green Verdugo Hills. Just a bunch of hill men talking about their county forester. Maybe the matter is of no importance. And then, again, maybe it is. It is hard to say just what is important in this world, and what is not.

Anyway, the event was unusual, even though it might not have been important. For we were praising and not "cussing" Flintham. And Flintham is a public official.

You don't often hear it—kind words from taxpayers for the fellow who spends the taxes.

The way the talk came up was that the man who plays the flute had been out over the old deer lick trail trying to see if he could get track of his pet badger which had mysteriously left home and had not reported himself for three days and three nights. And the man who plays the flute had gone clear down across the yon side of the hills looking for his badger.

And, by ginger, what does he see but this young fellow Flintham with a gang of men cutting and blazing great trails throughout the high ridges and blocking the whole hill country out like a checkerboard with the wide gashes he was making in the chaparral.

And the man who plays the flute had a talk with this young fellow Flintham about what the dickens he was doing. And Flintham said, by ginger, he is going to block off all the hills and mountains in the county with fire breaks like that. And when he gets through we will be able to head these mountain fires and hill fires off. We'll jump on them like a thousand of brick, Flintham said.

Now there's a fellow who is really doing something, said the neighbors, when they heard what the man who plays the flute told them. And the man who plays the flute was so excited over it, himself, that he forgot all about his pet badger.

My badger will come home when he gets ready, I guess, he said; and if he doesn't I will have to mourn his loss. But by ginger, if this young fellow Flintham wasn't doing what he is doing up in our hills and mountains, some time they would be burned bare as a bald head, and there would be nothing to hold the floods, and Los Angeles and all the towns down there in the lowlands would be buried fathoms deep under mud as Babylon and Nineveh were buried.

And that would be a danged sight more serious than losing a pet badger, said the man who plays the flute.

CHAUTAUQUA

Yes--- It's a Good Program

Almost before you realize the "big brown top" will be with us. Make your plans now to buy that Season Ticket and secure for yourself and family all the benefits to be derived from a week within the Chautauqua tent.

THERE'S MUSIC

Eleven Big Concerts—Frances Ingram, noted contralto of the Metropolitan Opera Company gives a recital on the second night; The Stearns-Hellekson Trio, an all-star group of artists support Miss Ingram; The Patton Brothers Trio, three talented brothers in two original musical programs; Oceanic Quintet, a popular ladies' orchestra; The Watteau Girls give a unique musical entertainment on the fifth afternoon; Vernon Stone, musical wizard, appearing in two preludes and the Gilvan Opera Company in two big splendid programs on the last day. The music alone is worth the price of a season ticket.

THERE'S ENTERTAINMENT

Peter B. Kyne's famous American play, "Cappy Ricks," dramatized from the Saturday Evening Post stories of the same name, with an exceptional cast will be given on the fifth night; Electra Platt, mirth provoker and Queen of Entertainers, will appear in two preludes on the sixth day. Paul Fleming, Magician, will delight and puzzle you in a rare evening of magic. And again you have the worth of a season ticket in entertainment features.

And Intellectual Lectures

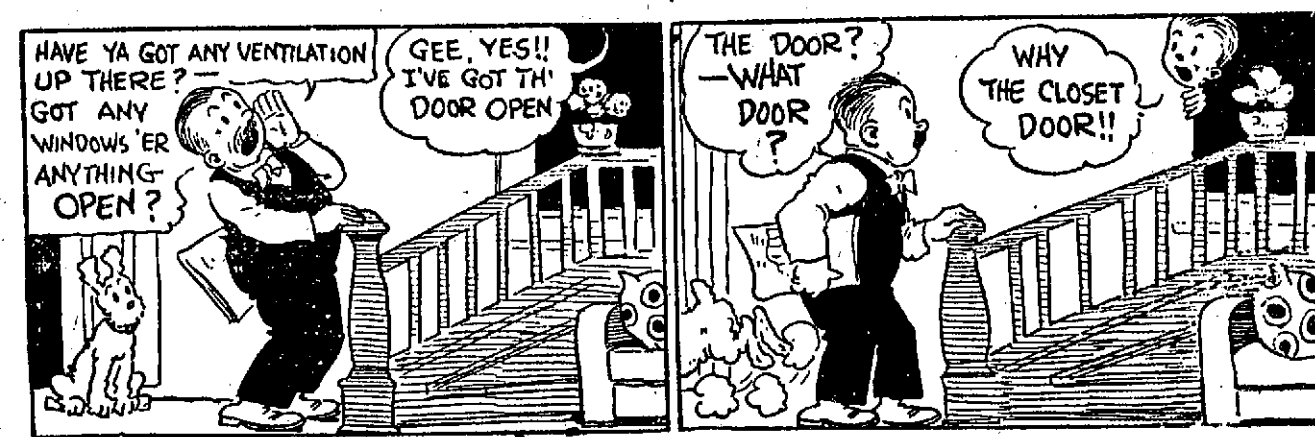

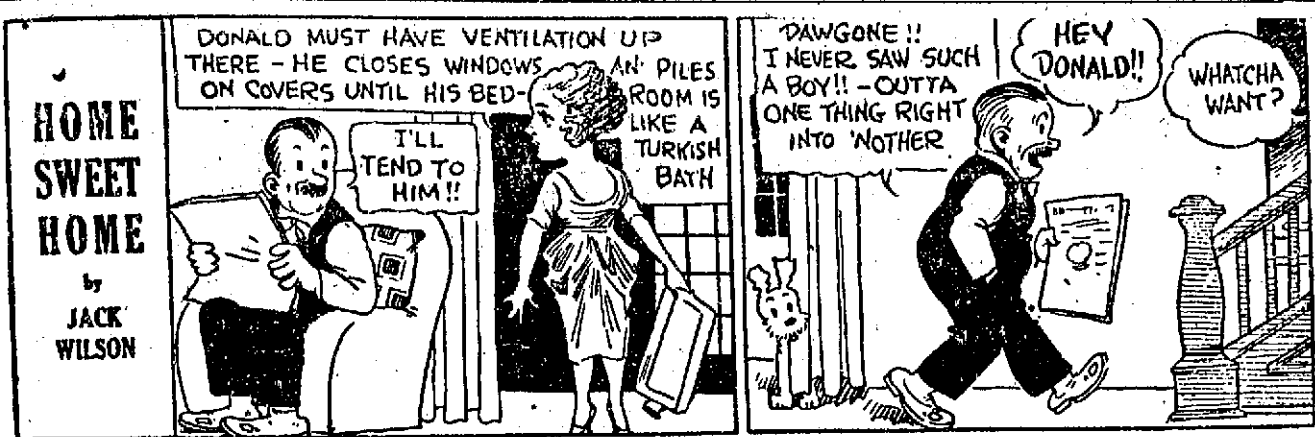

Opie Read, whose lecture, "Human Nature and Politics," is a gem of quaint philosophy. In his excursions looking for the beauties of nature, he discovers great truths. Dr. Elmer Lynn Williams, Chicago's "fighting parson," lecturing on "The Big Game"; Edna Eugenia Lowe, giving "The Danger Signals on the Road to Health"; Norman Allan Imrie, brilliant scholar and speaker, will discuss "Working Together for Billions," and J. C. Herbsman, noted western lecturer of brilliant mind and eloquent delivery, will give "Life's Balance Sheet."

JUDGE BENJAMIN BLEDSOE ORATOR AT TEMPLAR EASTER SERVICES

The four fundamentals of American civilization—organized government, the home, the free public school, and the church—was the theme of the address delivered by Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe, past grand master of Masons of California, and past grand master of the grand commandery of the state of California, at the Templar Easter service, held by the knights of Covina commandery in the Covina Methodist church last Sunday afternoon.

The auditorium was filled by over a hundred Masons, with the members of their families, of the Covina valley, sixty knights of the Covina commandery, in uniform, under the command of their captain general, Dr. C. W. Kearney, escorted Commander H. H. Loose with his staff of past commanders from the Masonic temple to the church. The knights during the service occupied the pews in the center aisle of the sacred edifice.

The distinguished speaker was conducted to the platform by Commander H. H. Loose, Sir W. W. Nash, eminent relative of Covina commandery, the Rev. Howard Clark, pastor of the Covina Methodist church, and the Rev. Samuel J. McConnell. The service was in charge of Sir W. W. Nash, who read the sacred ritual of the order, the responses being rendered by the knights.

No feature of the program, evidently, was more enjoyed than the singing of the combined Episcopal and Methodist choirs of the local churches in their rendition of the "Te Deum" and "Hallelujah Chorus." "He Is Risen" (John Prindle Scott) was sung as a solo by Mrs. John Brunjes of Glendora. The service closed with the singing of the hymn, "Onward, Christian Soldiers," by the choir and congregation. During the service Mrs. Randall Chew and Mrs. Henry Damerel acted as accompanists.

Judge Bledsoe spoke for thirty-five minutes. In part, the speaker said:

"Organized government—democracy in leash, rational liberty under positive law, with a means for the enforcing the one no less than the other—this is the foundation stone of our civilization. Neither consciously nor willingly should we brook an attack upon it. It enables us to retain and to employ for our benefit, in peace and security, that which may come to us in virtue of any of our

Anaheim Will Stage Valencia Orange Show

California's beautiful summer exposition, the second annual California Valencia orange show, will open its doors at Anaheim on the evening of May 23, to remain open until midnight of Decoration day, May 30.

Since the premier Valencia show, in May of 1921, the growers of northern orange county have been busily preparing for this year's exposition. The first show proved such a success that the producers immediately commenced work to produce the most perfect show possible this year.

That their efforts will be rewarded is indicated by the fact that twice as many gorgeous feature exhibits will be contained in the coming exposition, three times as much rack space available, and instead of being housed in one tent, three huge canvasses, each more than a block in length, will cover the exposition.

Valencia oranges were introduced to California hardly two decades ago to furnish a late-bearing crop which would tend to make the California citrus season continuous. The popularity of the fruit may be obtained from the fact that during 1921 from a total of nearly six million boxes of citrus fruits produced in Orange county, four-fifths of the output were Valencias.

Funeral Rites Held For James C. Church

Funeral services, attended by a large number of friends of the family, were held on Monday afternoon in the chapel of Custer & Christiansen undertaking parlors for Mr. James C. Church, whose death occurred on the previous Saturday. The service was in charge of the Rev. Edward Williams, pastor of the Presbyterian church of this city. The funeral hymns were rendered by Mrs. F. C. Kaiser. The interment was in Oakdale cemetery.

The deceased, who at the time of his death was 44 years of age, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Church of the West Covina district. He had been an invalid almost his entire life as a result of a severe injury which he received at school. The family moved to California twenty-one years ago and planted one of the first walnut groves in the West Covina district.

BRETHREN EASTER PROGRAM IS WELL ATTENDED

A large number of residents of this city and community showed their interest of the activities of the Brethren church by their presence at the last Sunday evening's program.

The Easter cantata, "Our Resurrection Hope," (by Carrie A. Adams) was well rendered, being interspersed with a quartet and several trios. Special mention is due Mrs. Willard Runyan who so touchingly gave the reading, "The Least of These."

"Four Horsemen" To Be Shown At Theater

(By Myra Nye)

One of the greatest moving picture plays produced since the war is coming to the Covina Theater next week. In naming the four outstanding pictures of the last two years, New York and Los Angeles critics never omit THE FOUR HORSEMEN OF THE APOCALYPSE.

This perfect picture of the silver sheet will be shown here even ahead of the second showing in Los Angeles. When it was first shown at the Mission Theater, Broadway, every day for a long run saw the theater crowded with long lines in waiting. It was produced at a time when war pictures were beyond the pale of popularity. A war picture itself, it sprang into immediate popularity and was the beginning of a vogue for war pictures.

Yet one who dislikes to see the horror of war depicted on the screen need not hesitate to see this one. The feelings are not too greatly harrowed; because the soft artistry of photography mitigates the feeling of hatred against war. The subtle contrast of peace with war leaves the beholder with a feeling of content and relief; content that the outcome of the war is as it is, relief that all is over and will-it may now be expected confidently—never return again in such magnitude.

A trio of names are the magic words which spell in electric capitals the success of this masterful play. They are: Ibanez, the Spanish writer from whose novel the play was taken, the most talked of war novel of the day; Rex Ingram, the young and powerful producer and not least that magnetic, romantic young actor with the colorful personality, Rudolph Valentino. This combination in a trio is a stellar role and since he appeared in the play he is the most talked of young cinema artist in screendom. He has no rival in his type. He is foreign, a wonderful wooer of women, romantic, not handsome of face but different to a degree from the many matinee idols who preceded him.

Also it was the first production of Ingram's which was a complete success. He himself is very youthful for so big an undertaking. He is an artist first of all. He knows how to build situation upon situation until one is carried along on the stream of emotion to a powerful climax. And last of all it was the first and last book of the Spanish novelist which won fame internationally.

As a minor strain in the picture the story of the tango, the South American dance once so popular, adds interest to the picture. The hero, the part taken by Valentino, takes the tango from Buenos Ayres to Paris where the youth had a tango palace before the war. This part is a strange and weird contrast to another more minor strain, the role depicted by "The Stranger" played by Nigel de Bruliere with the utmost psychological power. It is "The Stranger" who knows that war will come and tells the young dancer of its coming.

The story itself is of the lives of a father of virile strength and great, though not always pleasing personality, whose two daughters married on his immense cattle ranches in South America; the one a German the other a Frenchman. The daughters were Spanish. The children of these daughters grew up together, the German trained in military way by their military father and the French children, a lovely girl and the romantic, passionate youth whose part is taken by Valentino.

The beginning of the war in 1914 finds them all in Europe, the old grandfather having died and left his great wealth divided between the two daughters. Inevitably when war comes the cousins meet in the trenches, inevitably the hatred between the two families which has smoldered since the days of jealousy back in South America breaks out in a high flame emotionally manifest. One gripping scene follows another, and through all the scenes can be seen the four horsemen as prophesied by St. John; the rider of famine, of death, of war pestilence.

Nowhere in fiction or in any art has the last war been more truthfully delineated for the people. There is none of the stilted melodrama that too often prevails on the screen today. It is one dramatic rush toward the climax with scenes of love interpolated, with action and reaction of individuality upon individuality and a careful drawing of characters that make them breathe and speak before the spectators.

It is a picture that those who lived in maturity through the stirring days of the war and those who were little children then cannot afford to miss.

CROWN BUDDING.

Following the frost you need the advice of an expert budder and pruner. The trees are now in condition to be prepared for crown budding. I have had the experience and the success of my methods is well known to the orchardists of Whittier, Baldwin Park, and the surrounding valley. Stephen J. Heslop, telephone Covina 1143. 1t

FRANK A. GODFREY DIES AT HOME IN CORONA

Frank Allan Godfrey, for years a resident of this city, died on Tuesday at his home in Corona, where he had been living for the past three years. He was a victim of tuberculosis. Although in poor health for a number of years, it was only during the past two months that he had been confined to his residence. His mother, Mrs. Susan A. Jones of Weir, Kansas, came from the east about a month ago to be with her son during his last days.

The funeral services were held yesterday morning at 10 o'clock in the chapel of the Custer & Christiansen undertaking parlors, the Rev. John D. Chose, pastor of the Church of God of Pomona, officiating. The interment was in the Oakdale cemetery.

The deceased was 51 years of age at the time of his death. He leaves a widow, formerly Mrs. Emma Godfrey, a mother, sister and two brothers, Leo and George Godfrey of this city, to mourn his loss.

GEORGE B. HARRIS DIES SUDDENLY AT BALDWIN PARK

George B. Harris, an elder brother of "Nick" Harris, head of the well-known detective agency, died at his brother's ranch in Baldwin Park on Wednesday. The deceased, who was well known in Covina, having been a resident of this city for several years, had been ill for some time. He left the hospital about ten days ago and was convalescing at the ranch. His sudden demise came somewhat unexpectedly.

The funeral services were held yesterday morning at the Covina undertaking parlors, Rev. L. M. Idleman, rector of Holy Trinity Episcopal church, officiating. The interment was made in Oakdale cemetery.

George B. Harris was a native of Illinois and at the time of his death was 46 years of age.

HAS NEW THEORY OF SPEECH

Came About In Man Through Walking Erect and Using Hands as Hands, Says Savant.

Why have none of the highest animals developed speech? asks Dr. E. Nannyn in the Deutsches Archiv fuer Klinische Medizin (Leipzig). He points out that the sounds made by animals and birds are imitative, like the "da-da-da" of a happy baby. But the infant progresses beyond echo-speech to actual speech, which no animal or bird can do.

And he proceeds to answer this question, says the New York World, on the theory that man has evolved from the lower animals—a theory that is rapidly losing ground among serious scientific men—about as follows:

When man began to walk erect and use his hands, the right hand was found more convenient for attacks and defense, gestures, and the ordinary uses of life; the left hand being used more for carrying things.

This greater use of the right hand, not the more abundant blood supply in the left hemisphere (criminals have the latter), was what stimulated the left hemisphere of the brain to higher development. This provided Romanes' "casual anatomic factor" that distinguishes man from animals and made articulate speech possible. It is a consequence of man's walking erect and using his hands as hands. Speaking and the organ of speech developed together. The singing of birds and their balancing power are by-products of the evolution of their organ of hearing, as also music in man, along with rhythm and dancing, although a music sense evidently co-operates with the internal ear.

BARBER BEARS TRADE NAME

Word Describing His Occupation Declared One of the Curiousities of the Language.

Our friend the barber bears a trade name, or a name of occupation which is related to barbed-wire, barbarian, Barbary coast and Barbados. It is also related to "barbet" which was an old name for a poodle dog, and it is also related to "barbette" over which big guns are fired. It is one of the curiosities of our language.

Some of these words have come into the English language from the French and others from the Spanish, but they all go back to the Latin word, "barba," which meant "beard." The French got the word from their Roman conquerors and civilized and made it over into "barbe" and when a man shaved himself he "barbed" himself, or as perhaps we would put it today he "disbarbed" or "de-barbed" himself. The French made a noun to fit the fellow who took the beard or barbe off another fellow and they called him a "barbier," and if it had been the custom for ladies to barber a man they would have called her a "barbiere," with a grave accent over the first "e." The Norman conquerors of England took over the word with them and finally our Anglo-Saxon, Norse-Celtic, Norse-French, etc., ancestors shortened "barbier" to barber.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Rudiment Of Citrus Fertilization Is Told

By E. L. Koethen

The most important element of plant food is nitrogen; it is also the most expensive. There is no other chemical element that compares in importance to the horticulturist with nitrogen. The air we breathe is made up of 79.02 per cent nitrogen, and yet the plant that grows in it cannot take it into its system except in very small quantities without the aid of outside agencies. It is also the element most likely to become exhausted in our soils as nature is continually on the job of reducing it to the original state in the atmosphere. It is also likely to be found in your soil in a water soluble condition subject to wastage through rain and irrigation run-off. It is the part of good orchard practice to prevent these drains upon the nitrogen supplies in the soil.

The sources of nitrogen for plant use are organic and inorganic, that is, from vegetable and animal matter or from chemicals. As the Japanese who was buying fertilizers classified them, pointing to the nitrate of soda he said, "Too much medicine." He meant he wanted his fertilizer to be derived from organic sources. He knew the difference between a chemical agent which was quickly available, but also quickly dissipated, and one which is in a natural organic form and becomes available as it becomes decomposed. The organic almost always costs more on the market than the inorganic and is worth more because there is a limited supply and we must have it. The production of inorganic fertilizers is limited only by the size of the production plants and the power available to run them.

The organic materials at our command can be divided into two classes—commercial or sacked goods, and raw materials such as manures, straw, etc. Of the former class blood runs from 12 to 14.5 per cent nitrogen and contains little of other fertilizing elements. Tankage, being a product of the slaughter house also, contains nitrogen from 4 to 10 per cent and phosphoric acid from 2 to 20 per cent, the proportion depending upon the proportion of blood or meat and bone contained in the material from which it is made. The higher the nitrogen content the lower the phosphoric acid will be, and, again, the higher the phosphoric acid content, the lower the nitrogen must be. If the proportion is much out of ratio the buyer may be sure there is some reason to be found in doctoring it with inorganic matter. The purchaser of fertilizers should be sure that there is no substitution for organic matter in order to fortify a low-grade material.

The special office of nitrogen in plant feeding is to encourage growth of wood, leaf and fruit. A tree starved for lack of nitrogen will have small leaves, light green or yellow in color, and the wood growth will be short and thin. Of course plant growth needs all the elements, but this is the special office of this element.

Next in importance as a plant food is phosphoric acid. As shown above, it is found in variable quantities in tankage, bone, and manures. It is also found in certain manufactured products. Superphosphate is usually made by treating phosphate rock with sulphuric acid in proper proportion. The product is what is called an available phosphate. This question of availability is a mooted one. It is true that it is water soluble when placed on the land, but there are those who tell us that it reverts as soon as it comes in contact with the lime in the soil. The area of penetration after being supplied is said by these to be but a few inches.

The third essential element that is liable to be deficient in our soils is potash. The state chemists tell us that most of our soils are supplied with enough of this element to last for many years. In such case the way to make it available is to give the soil an abundant supply of humus, and the problem is solved. We are convinced that in most cases where the application of potash has benefited orange orchards it would be found that there was a lack of humus and the available potash applied acted where the natural supply was locked up. In the application of potash salts only the sulphate of potash should be used as the lower grades are in association with chlorine compounds that are not good for citrus trees.

The fourth element that is likely to be deficient is lime. We have rested assured for years on the statement that our soils are most of them well supplied with this element. But now we are awakening to the realization that we are mistaken, for so many applications have been made on various orchard soils with beneficial results that we can no longer disguise the fact that many of our soils are deficient in lime and that it is beneficial to supply it in many instances.
